Couple cash in

Val Dale stopped at a local store to purchase gum. While she was there, the Elk Point resident also had her August 19th LOTTO 6/49 tickets checked. "I never expected to win anything," explained the mother of two. It wasn't until the clerk asked Val, "Do you know how much you've won?" that the 30-year-old began to suspect she had won a major prize. "I thought maybe $500 or $1,000. Then she (the clerk) read it out - $92,287.50!"

Val hurried back to Moran Hamilton Brown Adjusters in St. Paul where she works as a secretary. "My boss had to give me a ride home," laughed Val. "I didn't even try and sit behind the typewriter. I just kept walking around."

"I couldn't believe it," was Doug Dale's reaction to his wife's news. "I had to show him a photocopy of the ticket before he would believe me," interjected Val.

The winning ticket was purchased at Two Hills Pharmacy in Two Hills, while the winning combination was made up by Val.

As for plans, the couple are unanimous on their first move. "Pay off vehicles," Val also added some of the money will "sit until we decide what to do." Doug has one more purchase in mind. "Now I can afford to get a new wallet," chuckled the 40-year-old as he searched for his identification.

$92,000 Richer

Elk Point couple Doug and Val Dale August 19th Lotto 6/49. Congratulations are $92,287.50 richer after Val won big on the Doug and Val!

Rain, rain go away!

Continued wet weather has harvest at a halt in the Elk Point area, with weekend sunny periods only sufficient to allow a few more swaths to lie under Tuesday's returning rainfall. Crops which are in swaths are in serious danger of sprouting and grade deterioration, while crops still standing risk being flattened by wind and rain or, if ripe, having stems broken by the wind. Very little combining was done before the onset of unwanted moisture, and farmers are anxious to see an improvement in the weather.

Much indecision as Nomination Day nears

To run, or not to run—that is the question facing the incumbent members of Elk Point Town Council and St. Paul County Council, as well as those on municipal councils throughout the province, these days.

So far, only one Town Councillor, Marshall Kachmar, has made a decision. He has decided not to seek re-election, due to a very heavy business workload, which does not permit him to give adequate time to a Council position, and 'just wouldn't be fair to the ratepayers.' He admits he will miss the involvement with Town decision making and hopes to return to Council at some future date.

Allan Frankiw is having mixed feelings about the decision to make a further 3-year commitment to the Town, which he says involves 30 to 40 hours per month which could be spent with his young family. Frankiw says he has 'really enjoyed being on Council—it's a great learning experience,' but will 'just have to wait and see' as far as filing nomination papers is concerned.

Steve Stepaniuk is also undecided, but feels he should step aside and let 'some younger blood' take over his Council seat. He recently reached the age of 65 and feels 'a person on pension shouldn't really be on Council—they should be taking it easy, going fishing.' Stepaniuk gives it a '99 percent chance that I won't run.'

Mayor Bruce Kleeberger is 'still taking advisement from my advisors' on a decision to enter the race, while Deputy Mayor Ed Buck and Councillors Alvina Schuhmacher and Steve Shmyr are also still undecided, or at least are not making their decisions public.

On the County scene, Division 1 Councillor Bob Smith, who has held his chair for 24 years, firmly intends to run again, as does Division 3 Councillor Bill Ference, who is looking for a third term after 'being asked by quite a few people to run again.' Ference won by acclamation in 1986, while Smith's seat was contested by Fritz Youngmans.

John Hutton, however, has decided to give up his position as Division 2 Councillor, due to time constraints. He has 'learned a lot' during the three year term, and feels 'everybody should give it a try some time in their life, then they would appreciate the work of their local government more.'

Kehewin chief ousted

By Lyle Hamm
Staff Writer

KEHEWIN — There weren't many compliments for Gordon Gadwa last Thursday.

The ousted chief of the Kehewin Indian reserve was verbally assaulted on numerous occasions throughout a public meeting called by elders and band officials who banished him some three weeks before.

The only defense the absent Gadwa received came from his mother, Lena Gadwa, and half brother, Glen Badger.

"There is a lack of communication among all the band members. This meeting is very one-sided - this is not the majority of people," claimed an upset Glen Badger who defended his brother and criticized those in attendance for not inviting all the band members to the meeting.

"I don't know when this meeting was called. Gordon came and saw me last night and asked if one was going to be held," Badger said.

Gadwa could not be reached on the reserve for later comment.

But there were several issues that not even Gadwa's brother nor mother could defend.

Gadwa was ousted because of alleged mismanagement of the band's funds and closing the doors to the books for over a year.

"The people haven't had the chance to see the financial statements for a long time," former chief and respected elder Johnny Paul said.

Even the notion of fraudulent government was raised in the two and a half hour affair which saw 90 people in attendance go over issues that were made public in a petition circulated on the reserve.

Further, the 1985 band government was never approved by the federal government.

"The principle thing at this moment is the election bylaw was never in place," Paul explained later.

At one moment, a band member made the motion that members vote another council in. The motion was loudly defeated.

"We can't call an election at this time. The council will have to find out where the town is financially," Paul added.

Acting chairman of the meeting, Norbert Jebeaux, told the group the band has hired an independent auditor to clarify where the band is financially.

"When the audit is done, we can then address the issue of where the band is," he said.

Of those in attendance, many went to the meeting to air griefs about their former chief.

"Some people have no homes, there is a lack of employment, people are hungry. What about our children, what can they pursue in life if they have no homes and are hungry, everyone must have equal rights," one member emotionally disclosed.

Angered member Clarence Badger told the group he was ashamed of how things were being run on the reserve.

"There is a work force on this reserve, yet we let the white man come in and do our work for us. That system has to change - we have money, let's use it the right way," he said.

Member Drayton Dion perceived Gadwa's leadership in another light.

"Gordon's got the ultimate power here and I don't like it. If someone wants something, they have to go to him," he said.

Gadwa's mother responded to the attacks by saying, "He's (Gordon) a human being, he's not a dog - he's been working very hard for the people," she said.

Fall season starts for the hospital auxiliary

By Irene Magnusson

The Elk Point Hospital Auxiliary started off their fall season with an impromptu rag-tearing session, in answer to a call from the Salt Plant. Following preparation of 78 pounds of prepared cleaning rags, the group got down to business, Gloria Lecopoy in the chair.

Agnes Moroziuk called the roll and read the minutes of the June meeting, Treasurer Elsie Oryshchuk gave a financial report, both were accepted as read.

Violet McFadyen reported the canteen going well, has been open often, and a mysterious donation of sixteen pairs of slippers has been received from an unknown source, along with a baby's cloak made of white yarn, very pretty. Thanks are extended for both. These will be offered for sale in the canteen. McFadyen reported she and her daughter Myrna Fox had carried the banner in the Canada Day Color Party.

A discussion followed regarding the upcoming Information Night in Elk Point, a decision reached not to take part in it, as it was felt to be of little value to the group.

The Northeast Region Conference is to be September 14, at Grand Centre, including a tour of the new hospital at Cold Lake. Wasy Elashchuk and Wilma Kjenner agreed to attend for the Auxiliary.

Gloria stated the Annual Convention will be in Edmonton, November 28 to 30, 1989, and that registration must be in by October 31. No volunteers, but a decision will be reached at the September meeting.

Adella Jennissen reported on the 'Fund Raise' program she has been promoting, whereby product UPC marks are used to gain 'points' which are then exchanged for cash or merchandise, to the credit of the group involved. Kodak films also offer a 'deal' on their UPC marks.

A promotion of a meeting in the city, Oct. 20-21, was read, the theme is 'Wellness for Women,' with a number of speakers and choice of subjects to attend on matters of health. This gathering will be in the Edmonton Convention Centre, costing $55 to register.

A discussion of what to order followed, with a decision reached to order two over-bed tables for the patients, and a number of baby t-shirts for sale in the canteen. There is also a need for more souvenir teaspoons. The new Elk Point Hospital pin, worn by McFadyen, was admired.

Next meeting will be September 25, with all members urged to attend. Twelve members were present at the Monday night gathering, which closed with refreshments, courtesy of the kitchen staff, at 9:25 p.m..

Oilmen Contribute

Grant Nixon of the Elk Point Oilmen's Association presents $200 to Barbara Naber for the Basketball Backboard Fund in recognition of the basketball players' help with raking greens at the Oilmen's Golf Tournament. The students also collected $194 in tips from the golfers. Next fund-raising project for the fund is a Best Out Of 50 Shoot-a-thon at the high school on Sept. 22, involving parents and other students as well as the basketball team.

Parent Nursery expands

By Diane M. Huffman

The busy month of September is upon us and this is the time, once again, which sees mothers and toddlers meeting for another successful year. The big news this season is that we've separated from the Playschool facilities and acquired our own room.

Although this is exciting news, it also means we must furnish our new facility with everything from tables and chairs, to paints and brushes.

Special funding from the FCSS Board and our regular fees will cover major items, however we are asking for donations (or a reduction in price) of certain items. For furnishings we require the following: comfortable arm chairs for nursing mothers; overhead cupboard(s) to store soaps and craft supplies out of toddler's reach; a countertop for preparing snacks and crafts, and any type of shelving for storing toys.

As our inventory of toys is low, anyone wanting to donate clean, used toys for infant to three-year-olds would be greatly appreciated.

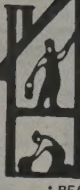

For those mothers wanting to register for a Parent Nursery morning, we operate Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 10:00 - 11:30 a.m. in the old Further Ed. classroom in the FCSS Building and will be commencing October 3rd.

Lynn, the FCSS secretary, (phone 724-3800) is now taking registrations which cost $25.00 per family.

We've also requested a donation of a toy, if possible, from registrants to further enhance our supplies.

For further information and for your donations, please contact Betty Anne Alexander, 724-4315.

Get involved

Today marks the first meeting of the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce after a two month summer recess. Will you, the business people of this town, be on hand to give the Chamber your support?

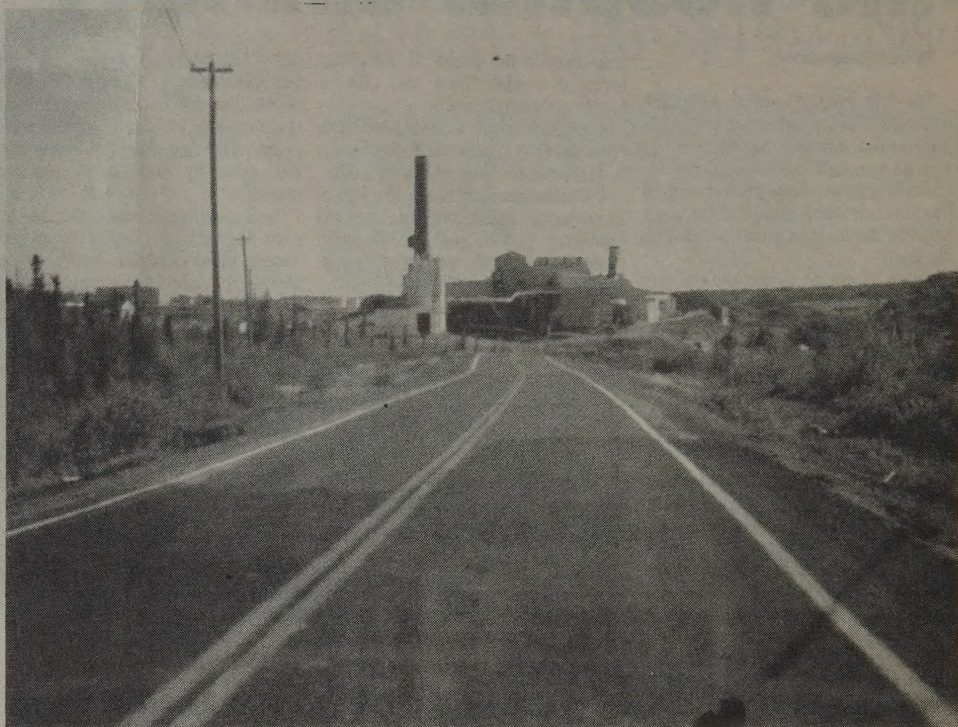

Al Herfst, then Vice-President of the Alberta Chamber of Commerce, told the Chamber's 1988 Annual Meeting that a Chamber of Commerce could be whatever its members want it to be. What, hopefully, we want ours to be, is a success.

We want it to be a vital and progressive organization which will help to promote our town and help it to grow and prosper, to encourage new business to come to town and new consumers to come here to fill their needs. We want to help make Elk Point a good place to live for those in all walks of life, where the goods and services we require are available without going to some other community. We want to have a town that tourists will be eager to visit, and to come back to again.

We can't begin to do that with ten people showing up at a meeting. We can't do that without a full executive to share the workload. We can't do that without involvement by a much larger percentage of the business community.

A few years ago, the Chamber suffered and almost died from apathy and neglect. Ed Buck and a small but dedicated group of supporters stepped in and brought it back to life. Since then the Chamber has chugged along, not fast, but steadily, doing the routine tasks of running the tourist booth, organizing the Canada Day Breakfast and the Christmas Extravaganza, presenting awards to outstanding youth and to Yuletide decorators. These are good, and worthwhile—but there could be more, much more.

We need your input, businesspeople, and we need you. Come along and give the Chamber your thoughts on how to do a better job. Today is none too soon.

Heading Home

Leaving Yellowknife, we see the massive structures of the gold mines.

Alberta Trails

The art gallery

By Irene Magnusson

We returned to the city of Yellowknife in the late afternoon, (it seemed) as the days were so long, and had supper at Smitty's about 7:30 p.m., then drove rather aimlessly around, from one end of the city to the other, noticing the tall buildings and very modern outlook of the New Town. Spotting the Art Gallery, we determined to visit it in the morning.

Yellowknife, named for the 'Yellowknife' Indian Band, was established by Alexander Mackenzie in 1789, but didn't grow much until 1934. Gold was discovered there in the 1890s, by gold rush Klondikers, but the serious influx of prospectors occurred in the late 1930s. The huge Giant Gold Mine was established in the '40s, and a road in at about that time helped move things along. A dam, to produce electricity, was built in 1948, and the town never looked back. In 1967, Yellowknife was named capital of the North West Territories, and other government offices were established there.

Yellowknife celebrates a 3-day Caribou Carnival, each March, to mark the end of winter. Other famous attractions are the large theatre, the Prince of Wales Northern Heritage Centre. There is also a large museum and Art Gallery, as well as many other attractions. The population of 10,000 or so are well served with hotels, stores, sports areas, etc..

We found a quiet spot on the beach, where a few other campers or motorhomes were parked, and settled down for the night. This was a much more secluded cove than the one at Hay River, and we could hardly hear the waves at all. Weary as I was, it didn't take me long to slip off into slumberland, and again, I slept very well in the van. Mel was off climbing the mountainous boulders with Pooch, long before I awoke next morning.

After breakfast, we visited the Art Gallery, with its many lovely paintings by native and other artists, also the artistically carved soapstone and wooden figurines and animal objects. There were paintings for sale, but the price was a bit more than I was prepared to pay, so I settled for some prints, while Mel and Aline did purchase a lovely carving. There is something very calm and serene about much native art, they do not clutter with too many details. Here we saw several renderings of the Wildcat Cafe, one lovely one in wintertime.

A friendly T-D Bank satisfied my cash needs, we shopped for groceries at a large IGA, and for more film, and I found a polar bear pin I decided I needed.

We tried to leave Yellowknife, but got hung up at a lovely campsite near the edge of the city, on a lovely lake called—what else?—Long Lake. We wandered here for an hour or so, then off on the long road home, snacking in the van as we went. The miles of pinky rocks, the small lagoons and ponds, the unending trees seemed to blend together, making me feel as if I'd been there forever, enjoying the sun, the blue sky, the occasional gull or raven, the colorful wildflowers. We even saw the small pile of rocks we had left, where we stopped to explore, on the way down.

Somewhere along there, we crossed over the bridge across Frank's Channel, with humps on its back like the old bridge at Elk Point had, only here there were only two humps. Mel stopped for me to get a couple of snaps, a large rock in the channel, well peppered with white gulls.

South we went now, coming out of the outcrops of giant rocks, back to the roadsides lined with spruce and pine. An animal, I thought at first a moose, but Mel determined it to be a caribou, trotted up the road ahead of us, then turned off into the bush. My photo shows only the tiniest creature, far away. But we DID see it! Otherwise the only distraction was the cloud of dust that met us, in the wake of oncoming vehicles. But there were dust-free miles, too, and we silently thanked the water truck drivers, doing their endless task.

We swung into Fort Providence, a few miles off the highway, for gas and ice cream and delicious homemade cookies. We explored a little shop, rich with native crafts, books and novelties. Gas was 63 cents per litre there, a long ways to haul it.

Back across the Mackenzie on the ferry, then down to Kakisa, and the campsite near the lovely Lady Evelyn Falls, where again we rejoiced in watching the maple-syrup water plunge over the broad semi-circle; and here—after all my searching—I saw a purple Indian paintbrush (!) and the 'walking tree.' This was a smallish spruce, its lower few feet split, to form the 'walking' legs. Probably caused by frost (?), we had seen several of them in our travels, but were told by a tourist that they were called 'walking trees.' It wasn't hard to believe.

Stopping at Enterprize for gas, we saw a couple of large trucks, with what looked like bags of dirt on their flatbeds. I couldn't hold off my curiosity, so Aline and I went over to ask what in the world they were hauling. The young fellows willingly told us they were hauling 'gold ore,' from Yellowknife mines, to a refinery in Montana. A bag had broken open, spilling a bit of its black contents. Telling us the bags were worth about $3000 each (there were dozens of them on each load) the boys gave us each a sample, so, with a bit of imagination, I have some genuine gold dust, from the NWT, a memento of my trip north.

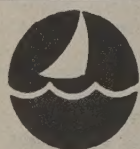

Stopping briefly for a last farewell at both Louise and Alexandra Falls, we 'signed out' at the Border Crossing, where we got more brochures, and free coffee. This was not the end of our trip, but the end of the NWT part of it. We were back in Alberta, with fields and towns flashing by, before long, and 'home' welcoming us. Even though we didn't fish or boat—it was an excursion I will never forget.

Gold Ore

The driver shows Aline the microscopic grains of gold, in the ore spilled from his truckload of bags, at Enterprize, NWT.

Elk Point Ag Society hosts horse show

By Charlene Baker

On Saturday, August 26, the Elk Point Agricultural Society held their annual Open Horse Show at the Stoney Lake Stampede Grounds. The day was bright and sunny except for the occasional shower which all those dedicated horse people waited out and then resumed riding.

This year's show was another success with 45 horses and riders entered. Action Pete's Catering supplied the hot concession all day and it was greatly appreciated. I'd like to thank the show committee for a job well done: Josie Veer, Bert Nielsen, Lisa Nielsen and Hughie Krucik.

Thanks to our announcer, Glen Harms, who did a very fine job of keeping us informed, and Bob Baker, our gate man, who made sure we all got in our proper classes. Thanks to Rob Davidson, our ringmaster, and a special thanks to Bev Hood from Gibbons, for a very excellent job in judging. A very big thanks goes to the ladies who sat at the show desk all day long, taking registrations and keeping track of us all, Bert Nielsen, Hughie Krucik and Lisa Nielsen. Thanks to Bruce Best who helped us out in the crunch, who came for a relaxing day and ended up working!

This year we held Pre-Green Jumping which was very exciting to watch, as those horses sailed over those not-so-little jumps. Thanks go to Dianne Jackson of Bonnyville for designing our jump course and to Joe Wadley for building them.

Last but not least, a big thank you to our show sponsors for their generous support, without which we would not have been able to put on such a successful show.

(Please note: some riders entered more than one horse in a class, thus resulting in some multiple placings in the event.)

Hosting a horse show of the size and calibre that ours has become is very expensive, and so we would like to thank our additional sponsors, Pan Canadian, Westmin and B & R Transport for their support, and Shamrock Valley Enterprises who supplied transportation for all our equipment. Also a big thanks to the Stoney Lake Stampede Association for the use of their beautiful grounds.

HV Tack Shop donated our beautiful High Point Buckles, which were awarded to Shanna Baker, riding 'Cactus,' in the 10 and Under category, Lise Tellier riding 'I'm a Gold-seeker Too' in the 11 to 15, and Darcy Reed riding 'Sweet Eclipse' in the 15 and Over.

St. Paul Co-op donated a pair of GWG jeans won by Bill Davidson, John Boy's Cafe donated a dinner for 2 won by Allan Baker. John Boy's Drive-In's dinner for 2 was won by Catherine Charest, and the whipper-snapper donated by the Ag Society was won by Stan Smith. Congratulations, winners.

Thanks to all who participated and sponsored our show, and we hope to see you again next year.

Arthritis Society needs your help

The 1989 Arthritis Society Campaign for Funds in Elk Point will once again be a Residential Mail Campaign and Business Canvass by the Order of the Royal Purple under chairperson, Mrs. Lois Sharek.

"Volunteers are the cornerstone of The Arthritis Society in Alberta," stated Dolores Sellick, Director of Community Relations, for the Alberta Division. "Their continuing commitment to help raise funds is vital as The Arthritis Society is Canada's only non-profit organization devoted solely to finding the causes and cures for arthritis. Without the help of volunteers we would be unable to: - support research that is continually providing new and better treatment of this painful, often disabling disease; - provide training of rheumatologists who provide care for the more than 470,000 Albertans suffering from arthritis; - provide information to patients, families, professionals, health care workers and anyone concerned about arthritis." We appeal to you to GIVE - TO GIVE HOPE when you receive your envelope in the mail so that we will all be winners in the battle against arthritis. THANK YOU FOR GIVING MORE THAN A THOUGHT TO ARTHRITIS.

Cynthia Oester

Oester wins triple gold

On cold, bleak mornings when most youngsters were still snuggled in warm beds, Cynthia Oester was at the local ice arena lacing on her skates. On hot summer days when others were spending the afternoons relaxing on sandy beaches with an occasional dip in the lake to cool off, Cynthia Oester was in Edmonton skating at an arena with year-round ice. While other young girls day-dreamed of dancing in the arms of their new beau, Cynthia Oester's thoughts were of dancing on ice.

For Cynthia Oester being different has brought the distinction of being a triple gold skater, a goal that no one in this area has ever achieved. For Cynthia, the sacrifices made were worth it.

"There are times you may feel you're missing a lot, but now I realize I didn't miss out on much," Cynthia says. "Skating was more important to me."

Why does skating mean so much to Cynthia?

"I just always wanted to skate," she explains. "People that are in it would understand, you just can't leave it."

Perhaps the key word in describing Cynthia and skating is "dedication". To skate year-round (winter, spring, summer and fall), five days a week, five hours a day, can only be dedication. That's what it takes though to be a triple gold winner, that and discipline.

"If you don't have the self-discipline, you will never make it to triple gold," Cynthia's mother, Sandra, explains. Cynthia's parents have always supported her skating ambitions, both emotionally and financially. In Cynthia's opinion parents can make all the difference in whether aspiring children can reach their full potential as skaters.

"Parents should offer skating lessons to their children when they are young, so if they do want to achieve they have a chance," Cynthia explains. "Many do not start soon enough, at four or five-years-old, and you have to because figure skaters reach their peak at 18 or 19."

Starting late herself, at the age of eight, Cynthia was fortunate to receive excellent coaching for the past four years from Sandra Lindenback who has competed internationally. Cynthia feels that Lindenback has brought a high calibre of coaching to the St. Paul Skating Club, greatly improving the quality of skating lessons available.

Lessons, along with ice time costs and equipment can become expensive. Fortunately for Cynthia, this is another aspect where her parents were able to offer support. In one year that Cynthia participated in the competition circuit the costs reached an estimated $5,000. For Mr. and Mrs.

Oester the financial costs were amply rewarded by watching their daughter grow in more than her skating abilities. She learnt how to take care of herself, a valuable lesson in today's times.

For Cynthia, as she reached the highest level in the three divisions of figures, free skate and dance, there was the added benefit of learning a skill that will be with her for life. One that she has already put to good use in a year of coaching.

"I'll always have it (skating)," Cynthia says. "I like coaching and enjoy helping other with what I do. I'll always be able to do that."

Coaching is being put on the sidelines though for the next year or so, as Cynthia is moving to Edmonton to further her education. Studying education, with a phys-ed major and a French minor, Cynthia plans on concentrating totally on her studies for a few years.

But for Cynthia, skating and coaching will always be there waiting for her. That thought, along with her triple gold title, will always remind her of how worthwhile dedication can be.

Conditioning for a healthy happy heart

Fitness is a combination of muscular performance, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness. Of these components, cardiovascular fitness is perhaps the most important because it reflects the body's ability to use oxygen to release energy. Improving your cardiovascular fitness increases your supply of oxygen (and energy), and can lead to prolonged endurance and optimum performance. By conditioning your cardiovascular system you can also decrease your risk of heart disease, stroke, high blood pressure, and other life-threatening diseases.

The Conditioned Heart

The normal heart beats at a rate of approximately 70 beats per minute at rest or about one hundred thousand beats a day. The well-conditioned heart can actually beat as few as 40 times a minute at rest or approximately fifty thousand beats a day. In short, a well-conditioned heart conserves energy. It can supply oxygen-rich blood to the rest of the body with half the effort.

Aerobics for Heart Health

Since the heart is a muscle, it can become bigger and stronger through exercise that progressively increases the body's demand for oxygen. This type of exercise is called "aerobic" which means "with oxygen". Aerobic exercise involves steady, continuous motion of the large muscles which places a large and continuous energy demand on the heart. Aerobic activities - walking, running, swimming, cycling, etc. - should be intensive enough to raise and sustain your heartbeat to a target heart range or THR (60-80% of its maximum capacity) for at least 20 - 30 minutes. For optimum benefits, you should exercise aerobically within your THR for at least 20 - 30 minutes a minimum of three times a week.

The End Result

A well-conditioned heart, like any muscle, is stronger and more efficient than average. By exercising within your target heart range for 20 - 30 minutes three times a week, you can condition your heart and enjoy the benefits of a more fit and healthy lifestyle in general.

When I'm not proud to be a senior

By Irene Magnusson

I have often maintained that I would never grow up to be a senior citizen, feeling sorry for myself all the time. My plan has recently been reinforced, and this is why:

I've been hearing far too much - on radio, television and in the papers - from a group who have sprung up in the city, presumably senior citizens, loudly decrying the proposed federal tax-back of the Old Age Pension, from recipients who have over $50,000 annual income (per individual - not per family!). I'm not sure what the thinking of country seniors is - but these are the kinds of feelings these protesters arouse in me:

I'm so tired of all these whining, wailing, waspish seniors who can't get along on their measly $50,000 per annum pittance. I think there must be a 'greed' virus flying around, which has bitten a few grabby old folks, giving them the gimmy-gimmy disease, making them howl for more all the time. They are attempting to give the rest of Canada's elderly a very undesirable name.

Yes, I am a senior. Yes, I receive the Old Age Pension - a whole $325 worth every month. Yes, I am grateful for it. Yes, I know where it comes from - right out of the taxpayer's pockets.

No, I did not bawl for it. No, I didn't refuse it. Since everyone else over 65 years gets it (rich or poor) I must assume it has a certain universality. However, if I had $50,000 annual income elsewhere, I certainly wouldn't complain if the government asked for that amount back. I might decry the idiocy of passing it out in the first place, the costly paperwork, time wasted, etc., but I would be ashamed to whine over returning it, so that it could be used by those needing it far more than I.

As the years go by, I find I need less and less, when I shop. I already HAVE my home, furniture, ornaments, education, dishes, jewelry, automobile - yes, even clothes. I eat only about half what I needed in my twenties, and am well able to grow and preserve a good part of my food. For people our age, styles don't change much and most clothing lasts forever. As long as we are comfortable, warm and neat - what else matters? Who would we be impressing with furs, silks and fuss?

Our needs certainly are not those of young growing families, paying for cribs, trikes, braces, education, outgrown clothes, on and on. We should pile more load onto them in higher taxes, to pay for more luxuries for us? Certainly not!

We seniors get full or partial medical, dental and hospital care, eye-glasses, hearing aids, prescription drugs. Everywhere we turn, someone or some company - is offering us per cent off, or other special rates on any number of things. Just because we are 65-plus!

We can have Home Nursing Care, Meals-on-Wheels at a fraction of costs, homemakers' services including laundry - and all those countless subsidized seniors' apartments, Lodges, Nursing Homes, Extended Care institutions - all to make our sunset years as balmy as our ancestors' certainly were not, if they hadn't saved, inherited or earned enough money to pay for all those things for themselves.

Why should we receive all this? Why, in heaven's name, should we DEMAND it? Yes, and more! Just because we are old?!

You know it's a great thing to brag about how we old-timers settled the country, broke the land, fought the Indians, etc., etc. It's a great scam, if you can pull it with a straight face. My own observances, over my seventy-plus years, is that we only did what came naturally - and some did it kicking and screaming in protest.

You're no heaven-blessed hero just because you survived the Great Depression, or the War(s), or the bread-lines. You were just lucky. You probably worked, thought, schemed and saved, all time-honored methods of self-preservation for yourself and family only. Just as young people are doing today. It was hard enough - for us - without supporting all our ancestors ad infinitum. Seniors still did work a bit and helped out with their keep, if they were able to do so.

It's enough to ask these present-day young and middle-aged working people to support us in reasonable comfort. Must we whine to be supported in luxury?

When I observe the hoards of seniors, lining up their fine shiny cars around the halls, scrambling for a chance to go in and throw money away into the Bingo pots, I lose any amount of sympathy for them. When I see seniors (or anyone, for that matter) smoking cigarettes, and know that, at today's prices, at even one pack a day, they are inhaling a good third of that Old Age Pension into their lungs - rotting them out - and they will demand full, expensive medical care when the 'black death' manifests itself - well, they not only lose my sympathy, they gain my contempt as well.

So, please, you anti-claw-back advocates, do shut up, and look around you. You could consider acting your age.

NEAHU

AT THE GIRLS' ALL-NIGHT SLUMBER PARTY, THEY WATCHED "FRIDAY THE 13th," PARTS 1 TO 6, FOR ONLY 12¢

ELECTRICITY: A HORRIFICALLY GOOD BARGAIN!

When you've got both your TV and VCR on, they're costing you just over one cent an hour to run. That's all.

So whether you're watching the complete "Friday the 13th," or old Fred Astaire/Ginger Rogers musicals, it'll only cost you a few pennies.

Of course, some modern conveniences cost a little more.

A 700-watt microwave will set you back four cents an hour - on the other hand, you can microwave a lot in an hour! And a 1,000-watt electric corn popper - just the thing for an all-night slumber party - costs six cents an hour to operate.

In a day and age when the cost of just about everything seems so high, electricity is still a great bargain.

ALBERTA POWER LIMITED

Provincial status

EDMONTON: The Reform Party has been officially recognized as an Alberta provincial party, less than one week after application was made to the province's Chief Electoral Officer.

Chief Electoral Officer Pat Ledgerwood notified the Reform Party on Thursday, August 24 that he has validated the petition presented to him the previous week, asking that the Party be officially registered as a provincial party.

Nearly 6000 names were on that petition. Only 4700 were required. More petitions continued to trickle in to the Reform Party office in Edmonton, bringing the total to in excess of 7000 names.

The Party will be registered as the Reform Party of Alberta.

Party leader Preston Manning says that the Reform Party has registered provincially in Alberta for the sole purpose of participating in the Alberta Senate Election.

What's news at the library?

The library was very busy last week, even though our Summer Reading Program had ended. The Children carried on playing Monopoli and we had the regular Thursday afternoon Summer Matinee. It was a wonderful summer.

Library Services has sent us 25 very basic French picture books.

The library has bought 24 new large print books.

Some of the books included in this purchase are: "Flying Finish" by Dick Francis; "Hard Times" by Charles Dickens; "The Road to Gandolfo" by Robert Ludlum; "Look to the Lady" by Margery Allingham; "Light Thickeners" by Ngaio Marsh; "High Water" by Douglas Reeman and "Dogs of War" by Frederick Forsyth. Come in and take one out to read!

Help support your library by attending "The Magicdabra Show", starring ing Murray Hatfield. This incredible magic stage show will be held September 15 at the F.G. Miller High School. Tickets are $5.00 each and are available at the library or Dave's Piza. The proceeds from this event will be used for Library Projects.

Three new music cassettes available in the library are: "Electric Youth" by Debbie Gibson; "Like a Prayer" by Madonna, and "One Time. One Night" by Sweethearts of the Rodeo.

NEW BOOKS:

"Northern Bush Craft" by Mors Kochanski - Get to know the resources of nature and how to use them. Extensive diagrams and instructions.

Attention All Brits

If you or your spouse worked in Britain, or served in Forces, you could be entitled to a British Pension. Ask us. But pensions are not indexed. 242 U.K. MPs signed a motion calling on the British Government to index U.K. pensions here. We need more MPs. You can help by writing to the MP in the U.K. where you last resided. We have their names. Time is vital. Send stamp. Classes of 1979, 1980 gather for reunion

By Christine Uttley

President for the Class Reunion of 1979/80

The weather was warm and beautiful on August 12 and 13, 1989 as the Classes of 1979 and 1980 gathered for their reunion.

The classes began their weekend activities by attending a dine and dance at Armistice Hall. The guests were met at the door with name tags bearing pictures of themselves from 1979, and a book with an update of what each person has been doing since leaving high school.

Special guests were introduced prior to the meal. They included Dianne Luxford nee: Richards and her husband, Peter, who flew in from London, England, and Denise Richards, who flew in from Australia. The girls attended elementary school with the Class of 1979 and everyone was glad to see them again. Special guest from the Class of 1980 was Cheryl Zayac nee: Krawchuk. Cheryl attended elementary classes until her family moved to St. Paul.

Lisa Nielsen and Pam Ballas, officers of the organizing committee presented Christine Uttley with a bouquet of roses for acting as President and pushing forward in getting the reunion all together.

Lisa, Pam and Christine collectively acted as Master of Ceremonies for the evening. After the meal, catered by D & S Catering from St. Paul, the Valedictorians, Audrey Bjornstad nee: Holliday - Class of '79, and Mitch Zarowny - Class of 1980, bestowed some words of insight and wisdom on the meaning of success, and how each one of us had accomplished it depending on what success meant to us as individuals.

Each attending student was then presented with an award especially designed for him or her. It was fun and it was a way to introduce everyone and break the ice.

The display tables, set up by Audrey Bjornstad and Pam Ballas, showed pictures and memorabilia from elementary to graduation. Everyone was free to browse and reminisce about the little events and episodes from our golden years of high school.

The music was supplied by Matt Higgins on the F.G. Miller High School Student's Union sound system. Everyone had individual ideas of what should be played, so we had everything from yesterday's oldies to today's modern tunes. But the music played on as everyone seemed to be more interested in visiting and renewing old friendships.

There were 18 students from the Class of 1979 and 15 students from the Class of 1980 in attendance. Everyone had an excellent time but everyone missed those who did not attend. So, all of you out there, the next time a gathering is coming, please try and attend because you are missed and the group does not feel complete.

Sunday, August 13, 1989 began with a tour of both the elementary school and the high school. Not many were in attendance, but those that were treated with stories and tales of school days gone by. Following the tours, a B-B-Q of hot dogs, hamburgers and salads was served out at the Stoney Lake Municipal Park. The weather was gorgeous and everyone got to meet the families at this social picnic. A few more of the past graduates came to see everyone, and the day was filled with more visiting and promises to keep in touch.

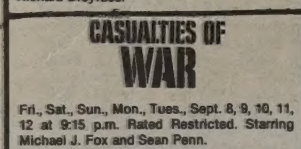

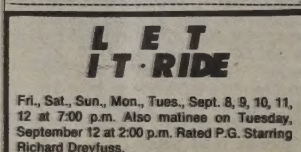

It was a fun-filled weekend with everyone leaving with good feelings and memories to carry home with them. At this time, I would like to thank the following people: Pam Ballas and Lisa Nielsen, for your time and energy in helping make this reunion a reality; Audrey Bjornstad and Pam Ballas, for creating the display tables that we all enjoyed; Dennis and Shelley Zacharuk for catering the excellent meal and providing the salads for Sunday; Matt Higgins and the Student's Union, for providing the music; Mr. Yarmuch and Mr. Hovdestad, the caretakers, for taking time out of their Sunday to act as tour guides; the Salt Plant and Mrs. Dikeman for providing the photocopying and time for the history books; Dennis Uttley, for taking the photos; Murry Nielsen, for donating the cost of the liquor dispenser; and especially all the past students for making time to come and make this reunion a reality, and for the beautiful roses. To any of you who I may have missed in the list of thank you's, please accept our apologies and a heartfelt thank you anyway.

We had net proceeds of $70.00, which Lisa Nielsen presented to the Elk Point Public Library on behalf of the Reunion Committee. So, until our 20 year reunion.....
